Key Observations on the Activist Environment

- 1 Activists continue to deploy record amounts of capital, leveraging their credibility with traditional investors to attack the largest companies globally

 - $45 billion in capital has been deployed on campaigns in 2017 YTD, nearly double the total for all of 2016
 - Activists (e.g., Corvex, Elliott and Third Point) have increasingly focused on non-U.S., primarily European companies (e.g., Akzo Nobel, BHP, Clariant and Nestlé), with Europe garnering 20% of total capital deployed compared to 10% in prior years
 - The largest proxy fight in U.S. history – Procter & Gamble vs. Trian – heads to a vote on October 10th
- 2 Activist campaigns continue to result in CEO turnover, an ongoing theme throughout 2017

 - In 3Q, announced CEO departures at Avon, Granite REIT, Mondelēz and Tenet added to the year's already lengthy list
 - Since 2013, annualized CEO turnover at activist targets has averaged 23% compared to 12% for non-targets¹
- 3 As activists pursue larger and better-resourced targets, companies have shown a willingness to fight back

 - Trian and Pershing Square faced public criticism of their campaign track records by Procter & Gamble and ADP, respectively
 - Akzo Nobel's litigation with Elliott, Deckers' refusal to entertain sale demands from Marcato and Red Mountain, and Acorda's adoption of a poison pill in response to Scopia provided further evidence of a more resistant environment for activist demands
- 4 Passive equity managers, continuing to bring in large fund flows, have used their expanding influence to voice their priorities for corporate governance

 - In the last 12 months, passive equity funds took in $500 billion of net inflows after bringing in $250 billion in inflows in the prior 12-month period²
 - Vanguard, BlackRock and State Street publicly commented on their stewardship principles and voted to support proposals on climate risk and gender diversity; State Street also opposed nominating committee members at 400 all-male Boards
- 5 Proxy season developments included investor pushback against multi-class share structures and further adoption of proxy access

 - Leading index providers S&P and FTSE changed their rules to exclude dual-class companies
 - Proxy access continues to become the norm with 2017's adoptions bringing the total to 436 companies with a proxy access right

Key Campaign Objectives

Campaign Objectives, 2017 YTD

Observations

- M&A remains a focal point of activist pressure
 - Strategic reviews or sales of entire companies or divisions have been demands at many large targets including Acorda, BHP, DowDuPont and Nestlé
 - Other plays include opposition to announced transactions (e.g., Abertis, Clariant, EQT) or bumpitrag campaigns (e.g., NXP)
- While management change is less often a stated demand at the outset of campaigns, CEO change has frequently been part of the end result
 - 3Q CEO departures include Avon, Granite REIT, Mondelez and Tenet
 - 2017 had already been a banner year for activist-related CEO turnover (e.g., AIG, Arconic, CSX, GE, Pandora and Perrigo)

Breakdown of Board Seats Won

Proxy Season Review

Observations

- Continued net inflows into passive equity funds made their presence felt in annual meetings as the priorities of the largest passive investors gained support
 - Proposals on climate change and Board diversity saw higher support levels and in three cases received majority support
 - Vanguard, BlackRock and State Street have all highlighted these two issues in public comments (see next page)
- Proxy access has become the new norm: for the third straight year, 50+ companies had proposals receive majority support
- While the rise of settlements caused fewer activist campaigns to reach the proxy contest stage, activists were successful (defined as obtaining at least one seat) in 50% of the cases that went to a vote

Proxy Access Adoption Continues to Grow

1 Includes all adoptions at US public companies, including adoptions by companies without a shareholder vote.

2 Represents average votes in favor of proxy access proposal in the subset of cases that went to a shareholder vote.

3 Includes environmental proposals at all US public companies.

4 Data is for proxy contests at companies with market capitalizations greater than $500 million at time of campaign announcement. Win is defined as any vote outcome in which dissident wins one or more board seats or in which dissident proposal passes.

3Q Developments Across Corporate Governance Landscape

Vanguard Shares ESG Priorities with Public Company Directors	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Vanguard CEO Bill McNabb advocated for best practices in Board composition, governance structures, compensation, and risk oversight in an August letter to public company Boards • Particular focus on improving gender diversity on Boards and addressing climate risk • Encouraged better communication of strategy among Boards, management teams and shareholders; Vanguard engaged with over 900 companies this past proxy season
BlackRock's Focus on Climate Change	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • BlackRock stated on numerous occasions in 3Q that climate change presents significant investment risks • Intends to engage with businesses facing significant challenges brought on by climate change and help them communicate financial impacts of global warming and the shift to a low-carbon economy • Intends to oppose Directors who do not make climate change a priority • Contributed to external initiatives which focus on developing mark-level and systemic standards that would advance reporting on climate risk
State Street's Push for Board Diversity	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • State Street identified 476 mostly U.S.-based companies that had Boards comprised of men only • Chose to withhold votes from nominating committee members of 400 companies, as they failed to make gender diversity a priority • Cited academic studies that reveal a link between gender diversity and better performance
Institutional Investors Combat Dual-Class Share Structure	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Investor Stewardship Group (ISG) and the Council of Institutional Investors took a stand against dual-class structures and urged companies to adopt a “one share, one vote” standard • Index providers FTSE Russell and S&P¹ changed their rules to exclude dual-class companies and MSCI is evaluating a similar proposed rule • ISG continues to grow and now includes 48 signatories and endorsers accounting for $22 trillion in AUM • In September, ISG announced its partnership with the Weinberg Center for Corporate Governance at the University of Delaware
